

MEETING DR. MARC LEVITT

Conversation with Ivon Martinez | Coordinator

---

[Point of view, coordinator, Ivon Martinez]

[Ivon Martinez, Coordinator, Washington D.C., USA]

I had been previously a patient at Children's National when I was very little, so the organization was important to me because I had experienced it growing up, and my family experienced it as well. So, I was very attracted to the organization and then to learn about the department, and all the work they do, was very amazing. I saw an incredible opportunity to become part of a team, and part of a solution, and you know, kind of a connection with families that I didn't want to pass up. So interviewing is when I met Dr. Levitt for the first time. And what I love most is that he tries to educate everyone else, and he tries to provide opportunities, you know, to the fellows that are currently at Children's National Hospital, to the nurses that are there, our APP [Advanced Practice Provider] team, our admin team. You know, he always kind of challenges everyone on his team. And then on top of that he makes these trips all over the world to gather, you know, his colleagues from other parts of the world to come to a country and help and educate, you know, the people there. So, for him to share all the knowledge he has, I think is amazing. And for him and other people to kind of take their time out of their lives, out of their days to make a trip like this, away from their families, is very special and incredible. So, I am very grateful that the world has someone like Dr. Levitt.